

ELL Teacher Survey

ISBE is participating in a research survey being conducted by the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). Illinois teachers who teach in an ESL/bilingual program or elementary/secondary science are being asked to complete this survey.

The purpose of this research is to study teaching practices for science instruction with English proficient and English language learners. In order to serve all students and to reach the highest academic goals, researchers at UCLA are conducting a survey of the opportunity to learn science and exposure to academic uses of language for both English-speaking students and English language learners.

- The survey is voluntary and anonymous but we encourage everyone to respond in order for your experiences and ideas to count in these important areas of instruction, assessment and learning.
- This kind of information can be used to improve future professional development initiatives and teacher preparation courses.
- The survey takes approximately 20 minutes to complete.
